The DBE Insider

A Message from the Director

Special points of interest:

- Access to Capital: The Bonding Assistance Program
- DBE Spotlight- ARJ Enterprises
- Success Stories- Niyah Electrical Contractors
- 11th Street Bridge Project Vendor Day

It gives me great pleasure to introduce the inaugural issue of “The DBE Insider”. Designed, operated, and maintained to world-class standards, the District’s transportation system plays a critical role in the city’s attractiveness as a progressive business location with numerous opportunities for entrepreneurship. DDOT is fully committed to the development of small businesses. Under the leadership of Lisa Gregory, The Office of Civil Rights assists me with administering operational procedures to ensure that all individuals have the right to compete for federally funded contractual opportunities and be protected from discrimination without bias due to race, color, religion, gender, sexual orientation, national origin, age or disability in the award and performance of any federal aid assisted contract. In the administration of the disadvantaged business enterprise (DBE) program, our goal is to build the business and workforce capacity of minority and women-owned firms so that they can compete and successfully win contracts on DDOT construction projects. DDOT encourages our DBE certified firms to fully engage our supportive services programs designed to foster events and programming that suit their ongoing small business needs. In partnership with our Business Opportunity and Workforce Development Center, DDOT offers a variety of supportive services including:

Gabe Klein
 Director, District Department of Transportation

advanced technical training, safety certifications, access to networking events and information regarding procurement opportunities. We look forward to working with each small and minority-owned business to achieve success in the highway construction industry.

Welcome to the Business Opportunity and Workforce Development Center!

The Business Opportunity and Workforce Development Center (BOWDC) is DDOT’s centralized hub. The BOWDC provides local residents and certified DBEs with information on business and employment opportunities with DDOT or its construction contractors and assistance for entrepreneurs who are interested in pursuing business opportunities on federal highway construction projects. The BOWDC is located in historic Anacostia and is walking distance from public transportation routes. At the BOWDC, certified DBE firms can access services provided through the DBE Supportive Services and the On-The-Job Training Supportive Services Programs. All BOWDC activities are developed to ensure that underrepresented residents and entrepreneurs receive the support they need to be successful. For more information on the BOWDC and its DBE supportive service programs contact Linda Fennell at (202) 645-8620.

Greetings from the Office of Civil Rights!

Welcome to the debut issue of “The DBE Insider”, the official newsletter of The District Department of Transportation’s (DDOT) Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE) Program. The newsletter has been created to provide you, our small business partner with practical information regarding business opportunities in DDOT’s highway construction industry, achievements in the DBE community, as well as highlighting resources that are available to help build your business capacity. “The DBE Insider” will provide articles of interest on transportation topics and programs that are systematic, transparent, and created to provide knowledge of better business opportunities. This newsletter has also been designed to help keep you informed of recent news and updates within DDOT and the construction community that affect small businesses and DBE firms. Most importantly, “The DBE Insider” will serve as a platform for the BOWDC to showcase the many supportive services offered for certified DBEs. The BOWDC is located at 2311 Martin Luther King, Jr. Avenue, SE, Washington, DC 20020, conveniently located 2 ½ blocks from the Anacostia Metro Station on the Green Line. The BOWDC offers federally-funded programs that are designed to fulfill DDOT’s goals to increase the number of minority-owned entrepreneurs and to help DBE certified firms possess the tools and manpower needed to offer competitive quality services. The BOWDC is becoming a more significant participant in regional networking, having hosted several events in the community and partnering with a number of community organizations to offer supportive service programs. A publication is necessary to inform, update and provide DDOT with a tool to reach all minority small business entrepreneurs regionally and nationally. Therefore, it is simply appropriate that “The DBE Insider” should be the vehicle to share these exciting developments with our constituents, DBEs and the greater metropolitan community!

Access to Capital: The Bonding Assistance Program

The U.S. Department of Transportation is offering direct reimbursement of bonding premiums and fees to certified Disadvantaged Business Enterprises (DBEs) performing (or competing for) transportation projects funded through the American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA). Applications must be received by mail or e-mail (no faxes) on or before September 8, 2010. Bond issue dates for ARRA projects must date on or after August 28, 2009.

This bonding assistance allows DBEs, which often have less working capital than large contractors, to perform on transportation infrastructure projects receiving Recovery Act funding from the Federal Highway Administration (FHWA), Federal Transit Administration (FTA), Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), Federal Railroad Administration (FRA), and the Maritime Administration (MARAD). It also positions DBEs to compete for future transportation contracts from any Federal, state, or local transportation agency. To be eligible, you must:

- Be a Disadvantaged Business Enterprise (DBE), which includes woman-owned businesses and minority-owned businesses certified under 49 Code of Federal Regulations Parts 26;
- Have obtained a performance, payment, or bid/proposal surety bond during the period August 28, 2009 and September 8, 2010 for a contract for a transportation project receiving American Reinvestment and Recovery Act of 2009 funding from the U.S. Department of Transportation (DOT);
- Have paid a surety premium to the surety company and if applicable, a small business concern (principal) fee to SBA; and
- Have a Dun & Bradstreet Number (DUNS#) and registered your DUNS# with Central Contractor Registration (CCR) at www.ccr.gov. Your bank information must be completed in your profile on ccr.gov in order to receive payment.

Applications are available online at <http://www.dot.gov/recovery/ost/osdbu/>

DBE SPOTLIGHT

For many entrepreneurs, they begin their small business with the notion that everyone shares in their passion and vision, however, most businesses on average fail between the 1st and 5th year and the passion along with the vision crumbles long before it begins. However, for Andrew Robinson- the man behind ARJ Enterprises, it didn't take long for him to learn that with a small business, persistence pays off. ARJ Enterprises, LLC was founded to fill the void left by the lack of minority asphalt pavers in the Washington, DC Metropolitan area. Andrew Robinson began his career in trucking, but quickly recognized the need for asphalt paving companies in the DC area. From that point forward, Robinson's main focus became "Making It Black"®. ARJ Enterprises began its journey as a Maryland-based company in October, 2003. Currently residing on Martin Luther King Jr., Ave and based in Ward 8, ARJ is a full service minority-owned and operated asphalt paving and concrete company offering a wide range of construction services to the Washington Metropolitan area. They pride themselves in being committed to supplying customers with top quality products and workmanship in a timely manner and without compromise. ARJ Enterprises has performed work on notable projects around the city; namely the milling work completed on the 14th street bridge approaches as well as partnering with Martin's Construction to replace the asphalt on the 9th street bridge. ARJ is now partnering with Fort Myer Construction Company to assist with the construction of the District Department of Transportation's (DDOT) Great Streets Initiative. ARJ has been sub-contracted to lay 19,000 tons of asphalt base on Pennsylvania Avenue for an estimated $1.4 million dollars, the largest contract this firm has been awarded to date. "The Pennsylvania Avenue Project has given us the opportunity to show that small companies can get big jobs done," said Andrew Robinson, President of ARJ

Enterprises. "We hope this high profile project can open the door for other sub-contractors to get big business in this city."

ARJ is the only certified DBE asphalt paving company in the District of Columbia that provides and performs all asphalt paving and concrete services in-house. ARJ Enterprises, LLC has been DBE certified and a client of DDOT's DBE supportive services program at the BOWDC for 2yrs. They consider their involvement with the BOWDC supportive services program to be instrumental in their organization and increasing business development. . The supportive service programs help firms like ARJ obtain necessary tools to offer competitive and quality services.

11th Street Bridge Project Vendor Day

On Thursday, February 18, 2010, Skanska/Facchina Joint Venture (SFJV) sponsored the 11th Street Bridge Project Vendor Day at The Matthews Memorial Baptist Church in Ward 8. Over 120 firms attended the event and received information on the project. Dan Bell, Project Director, presented to the audience the scope of the project as well as future business opportunities. The day included exhibitors from local financial institutions and government agencies who provided information about financial resources that are available to the small business community including: construction bond financing, short-term lending and micro loans. This was the first of many events SFJV will host. Members of several local small business community-groups, such as: the Ward 7 Business and Professional Association, the Ward 8 Business Council, The Ward 5 Business Council, Marshall Heights Community Development Organization, CHAMPS and the National Association of Minority Contractors, Metropolitan Washington Chapter, collaborated on this effort.

The $300 million 11th Street Bridge Project is DDOT's largest and first design-build-to-budget bridge in the district. The 11th Street Bridges, in southeastern Washington, D.C., are essential links across the Anacostia River. The freeway bridge will connect the Anacostia Freeway and the Southeast Freeway. The local bridge will provide a link between the historic neighborhoods in Anacostia and Capitol Hill. During the construction phase of this project, three new bridges will be erected – one for local traffic and the other two will be used for freeway traffic. The new design will tie into trails on both sides of the river providing a shared path for pedestrians and bicyclists making it easier for walking, jogging, and bicycling. Construction of the bridges and interchange improvements began in December 2009 and are scheduled to be completed in mid-2013.

Procurement Tip
